

Hello Mr. Perez, City Planners, Staff,

We thought you might like to see one of our recent units. We don't take photos because training is treated as top secret, but sometimes when training is finished they take them, themselves.

Civilian are Pat Conatser (L) and Military Manager, Andy Whitcomb (R).

Military trains day and night. At night they jump in full gear with 350 lb. rucksacks holding everything they need for wartime. Also, at night they have to wear night vision goggles which are harmed/ruined by lights. For this reason, we fear the trucks with all those lights.

Training goes on fairly constantly with sometimes as many as four countries being represented at one time.

The DOD, Department of Defense, and FAA teams recently visited for a heavy inspection and said, "Hands down, Perris is the best all around military training facility in the U.S."

We really don't want to give up any of the many great things that go on here.

Most sincerely,
Diane and Bennie Conatser
