Good morning Nathan, I am writing to you in support of Perris Skydive .As someone who grew up with Entrepreneurial Parents I understand the desire to see Perris grow and prosper and the developers may think the best course of action is to build MORE warehouses. What they don't understand is that Perris Skydive is more than a nuisance to the developers, They are the best group of teachers and the closest family. My Mother worked for perris skydive for many years and my father completed his first jump there. The time they spent there encouraged them to open their own small business that services Perris.The Time I spent there as a child taught me how great a community can be, Regardless of what language people speak or what hobbies you have, this group of people will do anything for their friends. Skydive Perris is a place that encourages people, People travel Hundreds or even thousands of miles to visit the best Skydive Center and fly thousands of feet over YOUR city, to sell them out and discourage travel to Perris would be a disservice to everyone involved The staff and customers at perris skydive all want the best for each other and want to see everyone thrive and that's what the people of perris think the city needs. To wrap this up, Perris does not need any more warehouses, They need to have communities where everyone is accepted and the people truly care about each other. To Disregard that fact will show the people of perris what is really your Priority.
